BOLD PACKING COMPANY AFFECTED BY THE PURE BUTTER LAW.

At a Meeting Soon to Be Held It Will Be Decided Whether to Go Into Court or Move to Kansas.

It is not unlikely that the Dold Packing Company, the only one of the packing companies which will suffer from the pure companies which was approved by Goy-ernor Stone yesterday, will test the valid-ity of the measure in the courts. If this course is decided upon the law will be re-sisted on grounds of irregularities during its passage. If legal redress is not sought the company will remove its butterine plant to Workling this summer. plant to Wichita this summer.

the company will remove its butterine plant to Witchita this summer.

The bill which was approved by the governor is a substitute for house bill No. 62 and prohibits the coloring of any substance made its innitation of butter. The Dolds are the only parties affected by the law, because their establishment is the only one on the Missouri side. Mr. J. Martin Jones, who holds a responsible position with the company, said last night:

"There seem to have been irregularities with the passage of the bill. It was never read in the legislature in its entirety. It is possible that we may contest the law on that ground. I believe that the courts in the state of Michigan have decided that a bill must be read in full at least once in the legislature before it becomes a law, and that was not done in the case of this bill. In every instance it was read by its title only. I think that Mr. Lyman has the affidavits of both clerks of the legislature proving this. If we see that there is anything in this, after we have talked the matter over with our attorneys, we may contest the law. If we do not receive any encouragement from them, we shall move our butterine factory to Wichita. We can do this as cheaply, perhaps more cheaply that we can fight the law. Still we do not like the idea of being driven out of Missouri.

"I rather suppose the legislature intended to help the farming interests of the state by the passage of the bill. That it did not do. I believe it hurt the farmers, for the farmers of this state are more given to raising stock than they are to engaging in dairying. This law is directed against the stock raising element. I suppose that the governor feels that in signing this bill he is acting in the interest of the farmers. That is what he was given to understand is the case, though the reverse was fully demonstrated to him. Statistics show that Missouri is not a dairy state, but a stock raising state. This legislation was simply in interest of the Dairymen's Association, the headquarters of which are in St. Louis, While the bill was before the senate there were from ten to twenty-five of these dairymen continually at the senate, lobbying for it. The principal one of these was a man who is seeking the office of dairy commissioner. We can move our factory to Wichita very easily and cheaply, and it we go we shall take away from here the forty or fifty men who work in our butterine department. The thing that worries us is the shortsightedness of the senate and the governor, and the manner in which the bill would never have become a law if we had used money to prevent it. One of the dairymen in attendance upon the legislature told me that they had gained their point and that, it had cost them some money to do it. sourl.

Police Kept Busy Hunting for Bold and Dangerous Men -- Two Arrests Made.

Dangerous Men.-Two Arrests Made.

There were lively times in the West bottoms yesterday morning between 3 o'clock and daylight. A saloonkeeper, a fireman who was on a furtough from fire headquarters and a colored laborer were held up at different points and the St. Louis avenue police were kept stirring at a quick pace to find the offenders. Policemen Heydon and Jackson did good work in capturing two toughs who knocked down and brutally beat William Davis, a colored man, at the Bluff street bridge about 2:39 o'clock in the morning. The men's names were J. J. Shea and Tom McTigue, and they assaulted Davis because he refused to give them money with which to get something to eat. Davis did not appear to make a charge of attempted highway robbery against the two men yesterday morning, at police headquarters, and they were taken before Police Judge Jones and given lifty days each in the workhouse on a charge of vagrancy. It is believed that both men have criminal records and an investigation will be made during their confinement in the workhouse.

during their confinement in the work-house.

Shortly after Shea and McTigue were arrested it was reported at the St. Louis avenue police station that two masked men had entered the bar room of the Blue Grass hotel, at the corner of Seventeenth and Genesse streets and held up C. W. Coil, who had charge of the saloon, at the point of revolvers. The two men communided Coil to step out from behind the har and one of the highwaymen went behind and took all the change from the cash register, in all about $15. Then he remarked to Coil, with a laugh, that business must have been dull that night and, in order to liven it up, he suggested that Coil should drink with him. With mock gravity the highwayman set a bottle out on the bar and Coil took a drink with the other masked men with all the good grace he could muster. Then the two four pads slipped out a side door and before Coil conid ruise an alarm both disappeared. Policemen were sent at once to the spot but failed to find any trace of the robbers.

In the meanwhile, J. J. Willis, a fireman

Foliagment were sent at once to the spot-but failed to find any trace of the ron-bers.

In the meanwhile, J. J. Willis, a fireman at the headquarters, who was on his way along Union avenue, was held up near Mulberry street by two rough looking men who asked him to give them some money. Willis had $49 or $50 with him, having been paid his salary the day previous, and was afraid to take any money from his pecket to give to the men for fear that they might notice he had a considerable amount and assault him. He therefore told them he had nothing. One of the men told him they proposed to have some money and that, although the, hated to do so, they intended to knock down the first man they met who had any and rob him. They then produced two ugly looking billes, shook them in his face and told him to get away as fast as he could, remarking that it was lucky for him they had caught him broke.

The police learned late yesterday afternoon that Shea and McTigue had recently come to this country from South America, though they were formerly Kansas City offenders. It is believed that they have been connected with numerous criminal escapades, and that an investigation will reveal that their capture was an important one.

Wilson Back in Kansas City.

Wilson Back in Kansas City.

Charles Wilson, who was taken to Little Rock a few weeks ago on a charge of holding up a street car, returned to Kansas City Friday morning, having been discharged by the Little Rock courts. Early yesterday morning there was a fight on Grand avenue, near Twelfth street, and two of the participants were seen by policemen, while running west on Twelfth street. One was caught and proved to be Pinky Hiltz. The other, who ran down an alley and escaped, was said to be Wilson. The man who was assaulted failed to identify Hiltz and said he did not know Wilson. No arrests were made, Wilson was a visitor at police headquarters yesterday afternoon.

The cup that makes merry is not the only cup the contents of which one should guard against. In the cooling cup as well lurks the foe to health and hanpiness. The matter of pure ice comes home to every family, and before you decide who will be your ice man, ascertain whether his ice was cut from ponds in which the merry crowds bathed all summer, or whether it comes from purer sources. You can make no mistake if you use the pure ice made from distilled and reboiled water, the only strictly Hygienic Ice, made by the Kansas City Ice and Cold Storage Company.

Dr. George O. Coffin, city physicianelect, did not qualify and take possession of his office yesterday as he expected. He attended the death bed of D.
N. Evans, an uncle of Mayor Davis, who died at 1220 o'clock. This and the sickness of Comptroller Shannon, who was in his office only a few minutes, made it necessary for Dr. Coffin to postpone action in the matter until to-morrow. He called at Mr. Shannon's office and had his bond filled out ready for the signatures of himself and bondsmen and will file it early in the morning, take the oath of office and then wait on Dr. Crow.

The story that Dr. Coffin has not been commissioned was laughed at by the doctor when it was shown to him. He said he had the commission and had his bond ready. All that is necessary is to file the bond and take the oath of office to complete his title to the place.
